

Strategic Thinking in Action

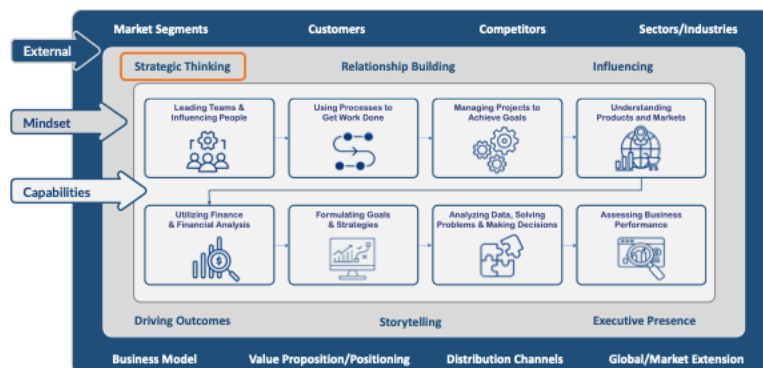

Advanced Business Acumen Workshop and Certification Program

Today's imperative for mid to senior-level leaders is to navigate complexity, anticipate challenges before they become crises, and create strategies that thrive in dynamic environments. Leaders are expected to think beyond immediate problems, recognize patterns others miss, and make decisions that build sustainable competitive advantage. That's challenging when most people have never been taught how to think strategically.

This workshop is for managers and emerging leaders (regardless of function) who need to shift their perspectives from reactive problem-solvers to proactive strategic thinkers. It's designed for people who want to elevate their impact by developing the cognitive foundation that amplifies every other business capability they possess.

BENEFITS

- Developing five strategic thinking habits that separate high-impact leaders from tactical managers
- Linking systems thinking to strategic thinking to see connection points that others miss
- Encouraging mindset shifts that transform uncertainty from threat to competitive intelligence
- Recognizing problems that are elusive to others and addressing root causes instead of symptoms
- Building business and data intelligence to contribute to an organization's market success
- Integrating AI as a pattern amplifier while maintaining human judgment
- Becoming eligible for the Business Acumen Institute Strategic Thinking certification exam

Business Acumen Canvas

Strategic Thinking Mental Architecture

This workshop is based on the book, Strategic Thinking in Action by Steven Haines
